“ I have worked with Ed about 2/12 years now at Little River Lanes He really was a great person. Every time I came to work he would walk up and the first thing he would say is hello sunshine how is your day and I would tell him and sometimes if something was broken he would come help me fix it or tell me how ,,, I have so enjoyed. Working with him and about 12 ish he would come walking up from the back going to have his lunch and if I had bacon cooking he would have to have a piece bring his glass and get ice and would only stay a few minutes then he would say oh well it's nap time and head back to the back and about 3.30-4 we would come up from the back and start piling the lanes , then about five o'clock he would come up with his bag in his hand and get ready to head home,, always making sure he says by ans have a good evening,,, I sure do miss hearing that mans voice an awesome man and a pleasure to work with so a couple times a week I would put the coffee filter in the pot when I was closing and leave him a note telling him to have a good day just because he was the kinda guy you just wanted to do something nice for ,,, he sure touched us all in some hug kinda way ,,,, RIP Ed always ans forever will be missed ,,,

“ John and I met Ed at Little River Lanes ten years ago. He was always cheerful and always had something nice to say. He is already missed by the bowlers. Our prayers go out to you, his family, with the knowledge he is now at rest.

“ I first met Ed a year ago. Having moved from New York, I found Little River Lanes and joined a League, then started Fun Friday's . Ed couldn't have been kinder to me, encouraging this horrendous bowler each week, and laughing with me as I choked when the colored pins came up! He was happy with the biggest heart, the biggest smile , just one in a million. My heart breaks for his family and I send them my prayers for strength. Ed was a blessing.

“ I worked with Ed at Little River Lanes. He taught me a lot. He was an amazing man that could cheer up anyone around him. My daughter Sydney loved him. She'd come in and get on the mic to the back and start talking to him. He'd run up to see her just smiling away. Sadly he didn't get to meet my son who was born recently but I just know he'd have loved him as well. Ed will always be remember by those who were lucky enough to know him.

“ Where to begin....to the family: Ed was the nicest, sweetest caring man I ever met. He helped me countless times with his pinsetter knowledge. He taught me many things, related to bowling and life. I still hear him saying, " one frame, one game", after I threw it bad. I will miss him dearly.

“ I believe I met him one time, but really it only takes one time to know how amazing of a human being you've come across when you met Ed. I was at a charity event at the bowling alley and went outside by myself to grab a hot dog and here's this guy manning the grill. He was sooooo happy. He just radiated the best spirit, was smiling, laughing having a great time manning the grill. I remember walking back inside and telling my friend - this guy on the grill is amazing!!! Come to find out he's the dad of another amazing person that came into my life randomly as well. All I could think of what a life it would have been to grow up with that as a dad, and I love my own dad of course, but phew what an amazing person. Nothing but love to the Scher family. I feel so lucky to have caught a glimpse. You've got quite a guardian angel looking down on you now. I wish you all the best and strength in such a hard time.

“ I first met Ed and the Scher family when I moved to SC for my 8th grade year...Northern girl meets the South. Not being interested in the only sport that school had to offer 8th grade girls, (B team basketball), I decided to join a recreational bowling league. What started out as just something to pass the time ended up turning into something I grew to love dearly....bowling. I never would've thought that it would have become so symbolic in my life but it was because of Ed that it did. Ya see, not only did Ed influence my life by coaching me and teaching this new Northern girl a few ol' tricks, but he also became like family. Ed became a good friend and confidant of my grandmother who also spent a good amount of time at Little River Lanes, and he was always there to greet us with a smile. I'm a better person because I had the opportunity to know Ed ❤️

“ Never met this great man but played in his Fantasy Foitball league for 3 years. Last year he was the last seed in the playoffs and knocked of his son in law (Mike) in the first round than ran the table and won the championship. Biggest laugh of them all was that his son n law was on vacation in Disney World. Long live the Midway Monsters!

“ I grew up across the street from the Scher's my favorite memory of Ed was of when my dad was out of town and a hurricane was on its way to the beach ... Ed came and got my whole family and we all went to the bowling alley ... we bowled all night and into the morning while the hurricane hit the beach ... he made sure we were having fun, safe, and bellies full of pizza and soda! He was always thinking of other people and always had a smile on his face! He was a very loved man and will be greatly missed!

“ My favorite memory is not very PC, so let's just say his sense of humor was like no other!! Daddy Scher was a second dad to me for many many years. I remember thinking how laid back he was and how nothing seemed to make him mad! There were plenty of times when I thought Amy and I were doomed and yet, all he did was smile at us! I love and miss you Daddy Scher.
